

THE IRISH PRESS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1970

7

JACKIE REGAN

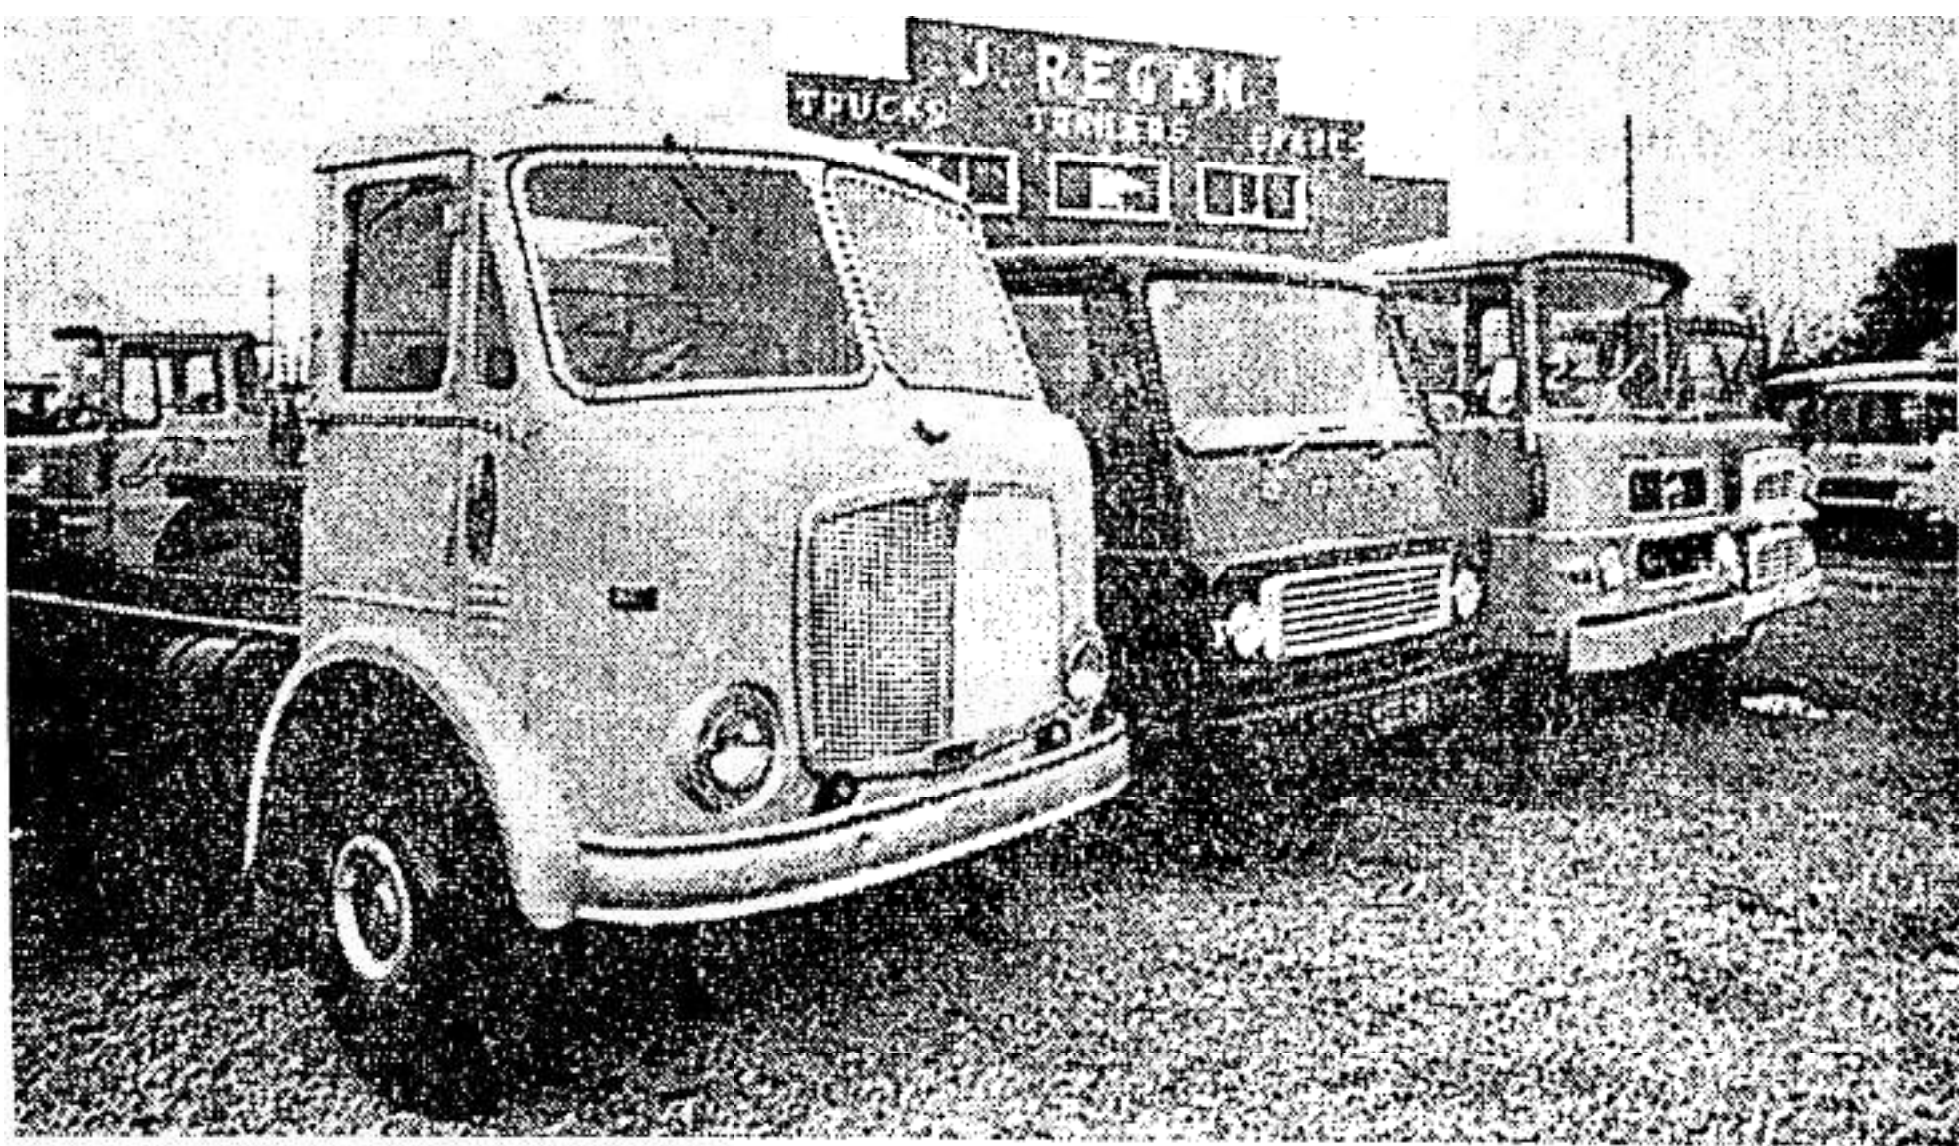

A section of the Jackie Regan four-acre premises, Naas Road, where there is always a selection of new and used vehicles in stock.

WHEN Jackie Regan moved into his premises on the Naas Road some fifteen years ago he was one of the first to set up business in the area. Although he was only a couple of miles down the road from Inchicore he was at that time surrounded by green fields and countryside. The fantastic industrial growth rate of this area has left this affable and straight-talking businessman sitting very pretty indeed. He refuses to take any bows about his having the foresight to be the first to realise the potential of this location. Laconically he remarks that he just needed the space, and at the same time the proximity to the city.

Well he has the space all right, four acres of it, with a frontage on the main road in the busiest industrial area in the country and the high success which his enterprise deserves.

Ever increasingly the nation's business and prosperity depends on road transport and it is in this very important field of operation that the name Regan is so well known, having been associated with the commercial motor trade for well over fifty years. Jackie Regan, specialising in trucks and trailers as he does, carries on the tradition established by older members of the family when the transport business was in its early stages in this country.

He is, in fact, sole importer,

Picture shows some of the current stock of new and Jackie Regan used lorries and trailers

distributor and assembler of the famous B.T.C. trailers used extensively throughout the country for the conveyance of all sorts of merchandise. These trailers are tremendously sturdy and well made and their absolute quality have earned them a most enviable reputation among transport men.

Apart from assembling and distributing trailers and the sale of new trucks, a very large part of Jackie Regan's business is concentrated on the sale of used trucks and heavy duty vehicles. At his works and site here on the Naas Road there is an amazing range and variety of transport available. In fact, you could buy anything from a light trailer to a double-decker bus. The variety of commercial transport available is not surprising when one considers that Regan is one of the biggest cash buyers of used vehicles in the country. He is also one of the largest importers of used trailers in the Republic.

Most commercial vehicles work really hard to earn their

